

Standard softwares

If your favorite client software is eM Client, KDE Kontact, KMail, Mozilla Thunderbird or Windows Mail, you can set it up simply by choosing to add a new account. After entering your full email address and password, your software will use the automatic configuration issued by Hosterra Email.

Some Microsoft applications ask for additional server type information. If this is the case, select "Exchange Server".

If automatic configuration doesn't work, you can still configure it manually to take advantage of all Hosterra Email's features.
